Strolling with a purpose

Stroll 125 Sculptures and Trees in the Waite Arboretum - Report

In ideal strolling weather, despite predictions of rain and possible storm, 10 Swappers enjoyed a thoroughly pleasing experience. The variety of trees in the Waite Arboretum lived up to expectations, especially a Dragon's Blood and a large type of fig tree where two ceramic Green Men were discovered. Finally, a number of sculptures reflecting the life of Peter Waite were appreciated, as were a number of others concerned with the Australian landscape and birds, as well a hotel for native bees.
