From the President

I am very honoured to be elected President of Glen Osmond Proboscis Club, especially as a very impressive committee was also elected. It gave me great pleasure to induct five new members into Proboscis and I look forward to inducting more during my term of office. Please feel free to bring your friends to our meetings so that they may find out about Proboscis and consider joining.

Our news media seem to be preoccupied with the gloomier global events, but a little searching will reveal that there are some highly encouraging events occurring also. An example is the signing of the United Nations High Seas Treaty in early March.

The oceans cover seventy percent of earth's surface area and the proportion outside national waters is referred to as the high seas and makes up sixty percent of the total ocean area. The Treaty will protect ocean biodiversity, prevent overfishing, greatly reduce pollution, and strictly control any sea floor mining operations.

This is a highly encouraging step in the United Nations ambition to set aside a minimum of thirty percent of global land and ocean surface area for nature.

Steve Lincoln
