From the Editor, in the absence of the President on leave.

We were entertained at the last general meeting being regaled by Andrew McEwin and Jack Batty.

Andrew spoke of the exploits of his great grandfather Guillaume Danial Delprat which led him to be Managing Director of the mining company BHP for 24 years, and Jack presented very well in outlining the relevant experiences taking him from obtaining a law degree to working in diplomacy with the Australian High Commissioner in London and as advisor to the Minister for Defence before being elected as the local MP for the seat of Bragg.

And next meeting we turn from diplomacy to spying! I look forward to Rod Barton's presentation in September.

Many thanks to Ken Watson for seeking speakers and maintaining an interesting program.

Brian Webber
